

Gramercy Park Overview:

Trustees of Gramercy Park, Gramercy Park Block Association

Trustees of Gramercy Park

Gramercy Park is a private ornamental park and surrounding residential district created in 1831 under a deed established by Samuel B. Ruggles, who vested the title to the Park in the Trustees. Mr. Ruggles granted the owners of surrounding residential lots and all subsequent owners “the right and privilege to frequent, use, and enjoy the Park as an easement to their respective lots.” The Park is managed by the “Park Trust” which consists of five lifetime Trustees. The conditions of Ruggles’ original 1831 deed still govern the Park today. Its provisions include an annual assessment imposed on each of the Lots to cover annual operating expenses and capital improvement projects. Park keys are annually provided to the owners of each of the surrounding Lots. The buildings on the Park have between 1-4 lots based on their Park frontage. The budget includes maintenance, payroll, security, administrative services, community relations, public relations, Park operations, events, professional fees, horticultural plants and bulbs, tree/shrub planting and care, supplies, repairs and/or restoration of the following: sidewalks, monuments, sprinkler system, equipment, benches, etc.

The Gramercy Park Block Association

Mr. Ruggles could not have imagined that his small residential community of Lot owners would eventually be home to over 2,000 residents. Nor could he have envisioned that Gramercy Park would be at the center of some of the densest neighborhoods and most desirable real estate in the world. The Gramercy Park Block Association organizes the community to fight battles to keep the Park private, and the surrounding lots residential. Under a service contract with the Park Trustees, and under their direction supervision, the GPBA provides administrative services, community and public relations, and manages Park operations and maintenance. The GPBA also manages Park events including: Palm Sunday, Easter, Fall Event, Edwin Booth’s Birthday, Christmas Tree arrival, Chanukah Menorah Lighting, Christmas Eve Caroling

The GPBA addresses safety, security, quality of life and preservation issues for the Gramercy Park community including:

- Fights legal actions that threaten the Park
- Fights threats to the residential nature of Gramercy Park
- Keeps out commercial development, tall buildings, nightlife, bars
- Addresses problems affecting the community's quality of life
- Monitors Gramercy Park building historic preservation projects
- Serves as problem-solving liaison to local police and city agencies
